

Bense-Rowley

Friends of Miss Nora Rowley, a former resident of Wilkes-Barre were agreeably surprised upon receiving cards yesterday announcing her marriage to J. Edward Bense a prominent young man of the Kensington district of Philadelphia. Many local and was a tiny old-fashioned garden, filled with all the flowers that will grow in the shade. A little iron table and two or three wicker chairs made a delightful retreat, invisible from the street, and here, just beyond the arch through which they had passed, the party had tea.

The city woman gazed around her. "Why, you haven't any more space than we have in the city!" she exclaimed. "Why couldn't I make a beauty spot of my little back yard in town? I've always thought I couldn't have any flowers back there because it gets so little sun, but you don't get much sun, either. I'm going to have an arched arbor-seat, and—where do you buy them, anyway?"

The hostess laughed. "Oh, we made our own," she confessed. "We make nearly everything we have, for the sheer fun of it. But you can get them from almost any garden furniture manufacturer, and there isn't any reason in the world why your back yard should not be as enticing as this, even if we do have a country house vista beyond our hedge. Small space is not a hindrance, it's a protection against having too much to take care of! And an arch like this almost furnishes the whole space."

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Toasted Baskets

My children will eat many vegetables, which they would not otherwise touch, if I serve them in little baskets made of rolls. I hollow out the center of the rolls, making a handle of a strip of the crust. The baskets are filled with creamed asparagus, carrots, or baked squash. When filled they are set under the oven gas and lightly toasted.

(Copyright, 1923, Associated Editors)

former residents of Wilkes-Barre attended the wedding which took place at St. Boniface Church, Philadelphia Wednesday, April 25. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Bierschmidt prior to the celebration of a nuptial mass.

A sister of the bride, Veronica Rowley acted as bridesmaid and George Brimmer as best man. The maid of honor was Anna Murphy and the flower girl Dolores Bense. Leo Aregood and Daniel Bense acted as ushers. The bride wore a white Canton crepe gown, a veil with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet comprised of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was dressed in a gown of ashes of roses, a hat to match and carried a large bouquet of ophelia roses. The maid of honor was attired in a gray crepe de chene gown, a large picture hat to match and carried a bouquet consisting of pink roses and sweet peas. The spectacle as they marched to the altar to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march was very colorful.

A reception was held after the wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bense after which dinner was served. The couple left soon after for an extended honeymoon and upon their return will reside at New Hope street, Philadelphia.

As of "KAYSER"
Socks, And Undies!
BERGMAN'S

Bense-Rowley wedding

Clipped By:

johnbense
Mon, Jul 13, 2020